

Auto-enrolment software

Many organisations are finding that the introduction of automatic enrolment brings with it a considerable administrative burden. Equiniti ICS' auto-enrolment software offers a solution, with the ability to manage the whole of the automatic enrolment process from start to finish.

Manage auto-enrolment administration with our award-winning software.

Starting in October 2012, employers are required to enrol eligible employees in a qualifying workplace pension scheme. With an estimated ten million individuals expected to be eligible, many organisations are facing an unprecedented administrative and communications workload in order to meet the legislative requirements in advance of their staging date.

Our solution

Equiniti ICS has developed an automatic enrolment software module that is designed to manage the whole of the automatic enrolment process from start to finish and support organisations in reducing their administrative burden.

Its comprehensive functionality includes tasks such as the assessment and categorisation of workers, automated letter generation for communicating with employees and the ability to attach incoming communication to the employee record, for example opt-out and opt-in requests.

The software handles all staging date activity as well as the ongoing monitoring of employees' status to ensure compliance post-staging date. For example if an employee turns 22 and, provided they meet the additional requirements, becomes eligible for auto-enrolment.

It works independently of any existing HR, payroll or pensions system or service.

Enhanced functionality

As well as the core automatic enrolment functionality, Equiniti ICS' software module offers enhanced features such as a compliance monitor to alert users to any forthcoming activities.
